Georgia

Project summary

With the help of the fund, WECF Georgia was able to work on capacity and network building. The fund is also used to continue with WECF Georgia's podcast series.

Ana Muradashvili

Project coordinator and researcher at WECF Georgia

"We are proud that our podcasts have created an ecofeminist platform, that activists and environmental/climate experts can use to raise awareness of the climate crisis in Georgia and of various resistance movements and struggles.

And our respondents are mostly brave, strong, inspiring women!"

Achievements

5 training sessions centred around gender mainstreaming, ecofeminism and climate change were organised.

WEC Georgia initiated the Task Force on the Gender/Climate Nexus concept.

As a continuation of WECF Georgia's ongoing "Can you hear my voice?" series a total of 10 podcasts will be recorded with 5 already done. The podcast series engages with eco, climate and environmental experts and activist. They had a total reach of 104,4K and 300 listens/views.

An additional 'bonus' podcast has been recorded during the Ecofeminist fair, where WECF employees and partners talk about the importance of ecofeminism.
